

SURE THAT HE IS COHNFIELD.

THE ABSCONDING MERCHANT'S CREDITORS LOCATE HIM IN CANADA.

The mysterious man Hoffman, who tried to sell $30,000 worth of Government Bonds in Detroit, identified as Isidor Cohnfeld—Some of His Creditors Seeking to Have the Bonds Attached by Telegraph.

It has been established to the satisfaction of Isidor Cohnfeld's creditors in this city that the man calling himself Hoffman, who yesterday sent a woman over the Canadian border to Detroit to sell $30,000 worth of United States bonds, is none other than the absconding merchant.

This morning Blumenthal & Hirsch, representing several large creditors of Cohnfeld, telegraphed to a lawyer in Windsor, Ont., who went to the Crawford House, talked with the so-called Hoffman, and wired back this description of the man:

"About fifty years of age; 5 feet 9 inches high, broad-shouldered, very stout, dark hair, thick mustache and beard, heavy eyebrows, very thick neck and ruddy complexion, with a high forehead and a pair of small eyes."

This is a strikingly exact pen-picture of Isidor Cohnfeld, the well-known sporting man and feather merchant, and a man who is now in New York City on a month's bail, in the attempt to convince Cohnfeld's creditors and pave the way for his return to this city.

The news of the attempt of Cohnfeld to realize money on his bonds caused great excitement among his creditors, and this feeling was increased after the receipt of the confirmatory telegram.

From what was let drop this morning in Blumenthal & Hirsch's office it is evident that there will be a hot fight made from this city for the possession of the $30,000 worth of hypothecated bonds which Frankie Olson took to Detroit.

The National Park Bank, the Central National Bank, Seism & Co., and George H. Lichtenheim have already telegraphed to Detroit to have the bonds attached. It is not known yet which of the parties got there first.

George H. Lichtenheim is an old established New York merchant who claims to have been nearly ruined by the absconding merchant. He feels very sore against Cohnfeld and would like to see him both criminally and in a civil suit if the latter came within the jurisdiction of the United States courts.

Mr. Lichtenheim was seen by a woman reporter this morning at his lawyer's office, No. 320 Broadway. He, with many other creditors, had been stirred up by the news of the seizure of the bonds, and was busily engaged in solving the problem of how to get hold of them.

He told the reporter the history of his claim of $120,000 against Cohnfeld as follows: "In July, 1886, Mr. Cohnfeld came to me and said that he was temporarily in need of money. He said that he was never before a very wealthy man and showed me a balance sheet showing $700,000 in his favor."

He said that Cohnfeld had been in a very prosperous condition, and that the money would be perfectly safe. He wanted $70,000, which he said he would secure by a mortgage on the building that he had just erected at 106 Broadway, and he offered $425,000, and on which there was a first mortgage of $175,000.

"I sold $65,000 worth of United States bonds, which he said he would use as a security, and I lent Mr. Cohnfeld $70,000."

"Mr. Cohnfeld, at the time that the mortgage was made, begged me not to record it. He said that it would cause considerable trouble, and that he would be ruined by it. He said that he would be ruined by it. He said that he would be ruined by it."

"On Oct. 24 of this year I discovered, to my amazement, that Cohnfeld had sold the block of bonds to a man named Louis Mendel for $310,000, less the amount of the first mortgage. He had taken advantage of my not having recorded my mortgage."

"I know that Mr. Cohnfeld left the city with $127,000 in cash and $150,000 in cash and negotiable bonds. He had a number of thousands of dollars and a large sum in United States bonds. The bonds seized in Detroit yesterday are no doubt part of those which he carried off."

"Besides the $70,000, I indorsed Cohnfeld's notes to the amount of $50,000, always relying on his statement that he was solvent."

PRICE ONE CENT. EVENING EDITION.

FUNERAL OF JOHN HOWSON.

By His Own Wish His Body Will Be Cremated at Fresh Pond To-Morrow.

The funeral of John Howson occurred this noon from the Church of the Transfiguration. John Howson was playing with the Lotta company in "Pawn-Ticket No. 210" last Friday in Troy, when he died suddenly of aortic aneurism. He left a wife and one son, who were at his new home in New Rochelle.

Among the people who came to pay the last tribute to the late John Howson were William and Henry Holland, the sons of the first actor whose friends were comforted in the "Little Church Around the Corner."

"Old John Gilbert" was there, and he remarked soberly to the veteran "Ben" Baker, Secretary of the Actors' Fund: "We come here pretty often now, don't we? We come here pretty often now, don't we? We come here pretty often now, don't we?"

A delegation from New York Lodge of Elks, headed by Exalted Ruler J. J. Spies, attended, and Brothers William Bowron, Robert S. Martin, William Birch, George L. Stunt, Henry Palmer and Thomas F. Mayland, of that lodge, were pall-bearers.

The body was brought down from New Rochelle at a little after 12 o'clock. It lay in a black broadcloth covered casket, with a very plain, on the simple plate was the inscription: "John Howson, born Nov. 17, 1843; died Dec. 16, 1887."

There were many floral designs, most notable of which were those from the "Lotta" company, with beautiful pink and cream roses, from an unknown friend; a flat design bearing the word "Brother," from Miss Emma Howson, the original Josephine of "Punfure," and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Parsons, of New Rochelle. Mrs. Huntley and John D. Ralph, and a pillow of lilies of the valley from Mrs. George C. Boniface, Jr.

The funeral services of the Episcopal Church were read by the venerable pastor, and a volunteer quartet, composed of Mrs. W. W. Thomas, soprano; Miss Clara E. Stetson, contralto; Harry Mook, tenor; and W. W. Thomas, bass, rendered the choir.

"Lord, let me know my end, and the number of my days." "Barnaby's" "Sleep thy last sleep." "Lord, kindly light," by Dr. Dykes, and "I hear a voice from Heaven," the choruses were Best's and Schoffen's, respectively.

Frank Howson, leader of the Madison Square Theatre orchestra, and wife; Charles F. Howson, Irving's manager; and Mrs. F. Parsons, of New Rochelle, were present. Mrs. Parsons followed the body with the widow and son of the dead man.

John Howson in life frequently expressed a horror of a buried corpse. He used to say: "I don't want to be dropped into a hole in the ground for the worms. I would rather be dropped into the sea, or cremated."

His wishes will be respected. His body will be cremated at Fresh Pond, N. Y., to-morrow, when it will be taken to Fresh Pond, L. I., and cremated.

THE DAY IN WALL STREET.

A Slightly Improved Tone in Prices, But Business Very Dull.

The tone of speculation was somewhat improved this morning and up to 1 o'clock there had been an advance of a point or less in all the leading shares. The sales from 10 o'clock until noon were 46,000 shares, or about as much as is usually done in half an hour in times of ordinary activity.

Money is easy at 4 1/2 per cent. The foreign exchange market is quiet. The gold market is quiet. The silver market is quiet. The cotton market is quiet. The wool market is quiet. The sugar market is quiet. The rice market is quiet. The oil market is quiet. The flour market is quiet. The meat market is quiet. The fruit market is quiet. The vegetable market is quiet. The grain market is quiet. The stock market is quiet.
